About KSLR

Kathmandu School of Law Review (“KSLR”) next year goes in its sixth year of publication and hold distinction of being one of the foremost publication in Nepal which is both faculty and student run. KSLR is truly international law review with its distinguished advisory board and it receives and publishes manuscripts from around the world. Our journal imbibes contents with expansive subject matters that are either legal or socio-legal in nature.

We take pride in sharing that we are a recognized journal by the University Grants Commission of India and we have entered into a partnership with HeinOnline, a leading online portal for academic contents from around the globe. We are available on HeinOnline and we are one of leading reviews in the region. (Available at <https://home.heinonline.org/titles/Law-Journal-Library/Kathmandu-School-of-Law-Review/?letter=K>)

Submission Guidelines

The Kathmandu School of Law Review (ISSN 2091-2110) requests that the contributors comply with the following guidelines:

All manuscripts should be original and should not be simultaneously considered by any other publication and co-authorship to a maximum of three authors is permitted except in special cases. The Journal accepts manuscripts for publication on a rolling basis throughout the year and the last date for submission for the Next Issue is January 31st 2018. Submissions made thereafter shall be considered for publication in the next issue.

Length Limitations:

Manuscripts may be submitted under the following categories:

1. Long Manuscripts: Between 5000 and 8000 words, inclusive of footnotes. Manuscripts in this category are expected to engage with the theme and literature comprehensively, and offer an innovative reassessment of the current understanding of that theme. It is advisable, though not necessary, to choose a theme that is of contemporary importance. Purely theoretical pieces are also welcome.

2. Short Manuscripts: Between 3000 and 5000 words, inclusive of footnotes. Short Manuscripts are far more concise in scope. These Manuscripts usually deal with a very specific issue, and argue that the issue must be conceptualized differently. They are more engaging, and make a more easily identifiable, concrete argument.
3. Case Notes and Legislative Comments: Between 1500 and 2500 words, inclusive of footnotes. This is an analysis of any contemporary judicial pronouncement or a new piece of legislation whether in Nepal or elsewhere. The note must identify and examine the line of cases in which the decision in question came about, and comment on implications for the evolution of that branch of law. In case of legislative comment, the note must analyze the objective of the legislation and the legal impact the same is expected to have.
4. Books reviews should focus on books published in the past three years. Reviews of older books may be accepted if the author can justify why a review would be timely and a good fit for the journal. Book reviews inform readers about current advances in the field and encourage productive discourse. Submissions is less than 1,500 words in length which describes the book's arguments and provides a critical analysis of the book's strengths and weaknesses.
